

A legacy of progress.
A future of possibility.

Episcopal
Community Services

To believe in the possibility of change is to believe in the possibility of people.

Thoughtful change is something Episcopal Community Services has always believed in. This organization built its reputation on its commitment to meeting the evolving needs of the region. Yet poverty persists, and long-lasting change will require long-term investments and a holistic approach to combating the challenges many in our community face.

As we approach our 150th year, Episcopal Community Services is launching into a new era of work—one that reflects our commitment to making lasting change.

By 2020, ECS will fulfill the promise of our new vision, mission, and values, aligning all programmatic outcomes with markers of long-term economic mobility. As a result of this research-informed shift, participants will experience a sustained change in their lives, and systemic barriers to economic independence will be confronted through advocacy.

Responsible evolution is a part of the legacy that we build on into the future. As a leader in social services, grounded in the Episcopal tradition, we owe it to our participants and stakeholders—and we owe it to you—to be an agency that creates a lasting change in people's lives.

When we look up, we want to see a world where the path to prosperity is available to all.

Join us. Look Up. Challenge Poverty.

David E. Griffith
Executive Director

Look Up with courage,
capacity,
and will.

A MESSAGE FROM LEADERSHIP

To believe in the possibility of change is to believe in the possibility of people.

Thoughtful change is something Episcopal Community Services has always believed in. This organization built its reputation on its commitment to meeting the evolving needs of the region. Yet poverty persists, and long-lasting change will require long-term investments and a holistic approach to combating the challenges many in our community face.

As we approach our 150th year, Episcopal Community Services is launching into a new era of work—one that reflects our commitment to making lasting change.

By 2020, ECS will fulfill the promise of our new vision, mission, and values, aligning all programmatic outcomes with markers of long-term economic mobility. As a result of this research-informed shift, participants will experience a sustained change in their lives, and systemic barriers to economic independence will be confronted through advocacy.

Responsible evolution is a part of the legacy that we build on into the future. As a leader in social services, grounded in the Episcopal tradition, we owe it to our participants and stakeholders—and we owe it to you—to be an agency that creates a lasting change in people's lives.

When we look up, we want to see a world where the path to prosperity is available to all.

Join us. Look Up. Challenge Poverty.

David E. Griffith
Executive Director

OUR VISION

We envision a world where the path to prosperity is available to all.

OUR MISSION

Our mission is to challenge and reduce intergenerational poverty.

We increase the ability of people to improve their lives and achieve economic independence. We call upon every person to participate in sustainable, positive change for our communities.

A MESSAGE FROM LEADERSHIP

To believe in the possibility of change is to believe in the possibility of people.

Thoughtful change is something Episcopal Community Services has always believed in. This organization built its reputation on its commitment to meeting the evolving needs of the region. Yet poverty persists, and long-lasting change will require long-term investments and a holistic approach to combating the challenges many in our community face.

As we approach our 150th year, Episcopal Community Services is launching into a new era of work—one that reflects our commitment to making lasting change.

By 2020, ECS will fulfill the promise of our new vision, mission, and values, aligning all programmatic outcomes with markers of long-term economic mobility. As a result of this research-informed shift, participants will experience a sustained change in their lives, and systemic barriers to economic independence will be confronted through advocacy.

Responsible evolution is a part of the legacy that we build on into the future. As a leader in social services, grounded in the Episcopal tradition, we owe it to our participants and stakeholders—and we owe it to you—to be an agency that creates a lasting change in people’s lives.

When we look up, we want to see a world where the path to prosperity is available to all.

Join us. Look Up. Challenge Poverty.

David E. Griffith
Executive Director

OUR VISION

We envision a world where the path to prosperity is available to all.

OUR MISSION

Our mission is to challenge and reduce intergenerational poverty.

We increase the ability of people to improve their lives and achieve economic independence. We call upon every person to participate in sustainable, positive change for our communities.

OUR CORE VALUES

DIGNITY

We honor the inherent worth of every human being.

JUSTICE

We confront systems and policies that deprive our participants and their communities of choice and opportunity.

COMMUNITY

We integrate the ideas and perspectives of participants, staff, board of trustees, peer agencies, and stakeholders.

IMPACT

We make a measurable difference in people’s lives.

Tear this sheet off to proudly display your affinity to Episcopal Community Services ▶

Look Up.
Challenge Poverty.

Episcopal
Community Services

225 S. 3rd Street
Philadelphia, PA 19106
215.351.1400
ecsphilly.org

Nonprofit Organization
US Postage Paid
Permit No. 120
Philadelphia PA

Look Up.
Challenge Poverty.